General Information

This is a graduate level course which is mandatory at the programme Master in Economic Development and Growth (MEDEG).

Language of instruction: English

Main field of studies

Economic History

Depth of study relative to the degree requirements

A1N, Second cycle, has only first-cycle course/s as entry requirements

Learning outcomes

On a general level the student will acquire advanced knowledge about the application of methodology in economic history. More specifically, students will:

Competence and skills

- have insights in methodological approaches of economic history to problems of economic change and comparisons over time and space;
- have knowledge in key concepts in quantitative economic history, such as the index number problem, relative prices and income distribution

Judgement and approach

- be able to evaluate, critically analyse and present empirical studies within the context of an economic historical approach

Course content

The content of the course is delimited of both teaching and literature.

Economic history has its own typical methodology and analytical instruments particularly concerned with long-term economic change and comparisons over time and space. Approaches as different as those emphasising institutions or culture, equilibrium models, evolutionary and structural analysis are used, yet often with a long-term perspective and employing diverse quantitative methods.

This course introduces how major themes in economic history have been approached in research. Explorative methodologies versus hypothesis testing are discussed. Students will learn about the use and limitations of different methods through an examination of studies in the literature.

Course design

The course is designed as a series of lectures and work with projects reports.

Assessment

Grading is based on individual performance, via paper writing, presentations and other mandatory activities

The University views plagiarism very seriously, and will take disciplinary actions against students for any kind of attempted malpractice in examinations and assessments. The penalty that may be imposed for this, and other unfair practice in examinations or assessments, includes suspension from the University.

Subcourses that are part of this course can be found in an appendix at the end of this document.

Grades

Marking scale: Fail, E, D, C, B, A.

At the School of Economics and Management grades are awarded in accordance with a criterion-based grading scale A-U:

A: Excellent

B: Very good

C: Good

D: Satisfactory

E: Sufficient

U: Fail

Students have to receive a grade of E or higher in order to pass a course.

GRADE	CHARACTERISTIC	CRITERIA
A	Excellent	A distinguished result that is excellent with regard to the following aspects – theoretical depth, relevance for the subject matter, analytical ability and independent thought.
B	Very good	A very good result with regard to the above mentioned aspects.
C	Good	The result is of a good standard with regard to the above mentioned aspects and lives up to expectations.
D	Satisfactory	The result is of a satisfactory standard with regard to the above mentioned aspects and lives up to expectations.
E	Sufficient	The result satisfies the minimum requirements with regard to the above mentioned aspects, but not more
U	Fail	The result does not meet the minimum requirements with regard to the above mentioned aspects.

The following grades are used: Pass with distinction, Pass and Fail. All courses are as a supplement also graded according to the ECTS scale A-F.

Students who do not obtain grades A-E on their written class room exam will be offered opportunities to retake the exam in which case the student will be assessed according to regular procedure. In the case of home exams that are handed in after the set deadline the teacher can: a) hand out a new exam which will be assessed according to regular procedure, b) penalize the student by handing out a lower grade on the assignment in question unless the student can demonstrate special circumstances for the delay.
