Course content

Individuals involved in the entrepreneurial process need to possess knowledge and skills to recognize opportunities and to make decisions related to what opportunities are worth to explore further. Based on academic research on entrepreneurship, the objective of the course is to provide students with knowledge and skills of how to recognize, explore and evaluate entrepreneurial opportunities. The course will also provide students with knowledge about how to make decisions in uncertain environments and how to initiate and carry out teamwork in the entrepreneurial process.

The course will consist of four parts:

1) Introduction to important key concepts in the entrepreneurial process, such as opportunity recognition, entrepreneurial learning, and different forms of entrepreneurship. There will also be an introduction to entrepreneurial decision making, were effectuation theory is introduced and discussed. In this part the students get to know principles and methods for making decisions in the entrepreneurial process.

2) Application of methods for recognizing and exploring entrepreneurial opportunities.

3) Evaluating and applying decision criterion for entrepreneurial opportunities. Students will develop skills in methods for analyzing and evaluating entrepreneurial opportunities.

4) Initiating and carrying out teamwork in the entrepreneurial process. In this part the students are working in teams during the course. Examples of issues addressed are how to handle conflicts between team members and the different roles people perform in teams.

Course design

The range of teaching methods varies, but primarily consists of lectures, seminars, teamwork and group discussions. Assigned readings are an integral part of the teaching methods.
Assessment

Examination includes both individual and group assignment. This course is participative, intensive and utilizes experiential learning. Active participation is part of the examination. Subcourses that are part of this course can be found in an appendix at the end of this document.

The examiner, in consultation with Disability Support Services, may deviate from the regular form of examination in order to provide a permanently disabled student with a form of examination equivalent to that of a student without a disability.

Subcourses that are part of this course can be found in an appendix at the end of this document.
