Course content

The overall objectives of the course are to enhance the student's ability to conduct an independent study on academic grounds addressing a well-defined problem in Business Administration. Another object of the course is to train the students' skills in communicating their results, primarily in writing but even orally.

The course includes a methodology-module that contains sociological perspectives and also theoretical and methodological aspects.

Course design

The teaching consists of lectures, seminars, assignments and tutor meetings.

A seminar will be given by the end of the course when all groups will have the opportunity to present and defend their essays and act as opponents of one or several essays.

Assessment

The examination of the course is based on the written work produced in the project combined with hand-in-examinations, individual as well as groupwise.

The final grade is above all based on the degree project. Assignments are mandatory and are graded with either Pass or Fail. If a student fails, the grade pass will be possible by completion.

The examiner, in consultation with Disability Support Services, may deviate from the regular form of examination in order to provide a permanently disabled student with a form of examination equivalent to that of a student without a disability.

Subcourses that are part of this course can be found in an appendix at the end of this document.
