Course content

The course consists of the following modules:

1. Scholarly Approaches in History, 7.5 credits
2. The Ancient, Classical and Medieval Periods until 1350, 7.5 credits
3. The Late Medieval and Early Modern Period, 1350-1850, 7.5 credits
4. The Modern Age, 1850-2000s, 7.5 credits
5. The Historian and the Labour Market, seminar series

The course starts with an introduction to scholarly approaches to history. Module 1 deals with the emergence and development of the subject of history into a modern research discipline and the basics of the use of different types of sources in historical research. Key concepts such as source criticism and view of history are addressed. Furthermore, the module includes practical work on sources and research texts.

Modules 2-4 are chronological survey courses providing broad general knowledge of history. The chronological modules deal with different societies and cultures over time and with the different living conditions, ideas and world views of people. The topics studied include key processes and events, and the influences between cultures and different geographical places. The chronological modules include study of source material from the different periods and research texts that provide a specialised understanding of historical problems of interpretation or of the craft of historians.

The seminar series The Historian and the Labour Market runs throughout the course, featuring invited guests from working life.

Course design

The teaching consists of lectures, seminars, group exercises and study visits to archives and research libraries. Seminars, group exercises and study visits are compulsory components.

Module 1 includes 6-10 group exercises and seminars, modules 2-4 include 2-4 group exercises per module.

The seminar series The Historian and the Labour Market consists of approximately 5 seminars. Attendance is compulsory.

Assessment

The assessment of module 1 is based on active participation in the compulsory seminars and group exercises, and on a take-home exam.

The assessment of modules 2-4 is based on active participation in 2-4 compulsory group exercises per module, and on an invigilated written exam or a take-home exam.

In modules 2-4, the group exercises amount to 1.5 credits per module and the written exam to 6 credits.

The examiner may deviate from the regular form of examination if the student has been granted an alternative form of examination by the Disability Support Services, and if it complies with the learning outcomes of the course.

Subcourses that are part of this course can be found in an appendix at the end of this document.
