Course content

The course consists of writing an essay that is publicly defended at a seminar with a discussant and to discuss another essay at a seminar. The essay shall be written individually or by two students writing together. In the process of writing, the student is advised by one or more tutors. The course starts with some gatherings for general information on writing essays and seeking information through the library.

Course design

1. Teaching: In the beginning of the course, there are some meetings. The course is ended by seminars. Apart from this, tuition consists of individual supervision.

At the start of an essay, the student states what seminar period the essay shall be presented. If an essay has not been presented at the latest two seminar periods after the stated seminar period, the student does not have the right to further supervision unless there are exceptional circumstances. If an essay has been presented but failed at two attempts, the student does not have the right to further supervision unless there are exceptional circumstances.

Assessment

1. Examination: Examination consists of writing the essay, presenting the essay at a seminar, discussing another essay and actively participating in at least three other seminars. Individual performance during the work on the essay can affect the grade. The grade is decided by an examiner and not the supervisor. The essay must be provided to the database of the Economic Library in order to pass the course.

2. Limitations on the number of examination opportunities: –

The University views plagiarism very seriously, and will take disciplinary action against students for any kind of attempted malpractice in connection with examinations and assessments. Plagiarism is considered to be a very serious academic offence. The penalty that may be imposed for this, and other unfair practices in examinations or assessments, includes suspension from the University for a specified period.

The examiner, in consultation with Disability Support Services, may deviate from the regular form of examination in order to provide a permanently disabled student with a form of examination equivalent to that of a student without a disability.

Subcourses that are part of this course can be found in an appendix at the end of this document.

Entry requirements

At least 75 ECTS-credits in economics at the advanced level are required. These must include Master Essay I (e.g. NEKN01) or an equivalent course.

Further information

1. Transitional regulations: The course replaces NEKM02 “Master Essay II”.

2. Limitations in the period of validity: –

3. Limitations: The course may not be included in the same degree as NEKM02 “Master Essay II”.

4. Similar courses: –

5. Limitations in renewed examination: When an essay is presented and get the grade Fail, the student may revise the essay. When the grade Fail is awarded, the examiner shall decide if the revision is of a nature that the essay will have to be presented at a new seminar or if it is sufficient to hand in the revised version. Essays that require a new seminar shall be handed in within a year. This means that the essay shall be handed in at the corresponding seminar period the year after at the latest. Essays that do not require a new seminar shall be handed in within six months after the grade Fail was awarded. Essays that receive the grade Fail for the second time shall be handed in in a revised version within three months after the grade Fail was awarded. For all later versions, the same rules apply as for essays that received the grade Fail for the second time.
