Course content

The course provides an introduction to the study of the Holocaust – the term used for the systematic killing of Europe's Jews – and the events that led to the Holocaust. A foundation is laid for seeking answers to difficult questions such as why this tragedy occurred. By studying the conditions that lead to genocide, in particular the Holocaust, students can orientate themselves in the interpretations and debates of the post-war era. The consequences of the Holocaust, how it influenced political and cultural language in the post-war era and why attention was drawn to it so late are discussed during the course. The Holocaust is also placed in relation to other genocides before and after WWII.

Course design

Teaching takes the form of lectures and seminars. Active participation in seminars is compulsory.

Assessment

Assessment is based partly on participation in group exercises and seminars and partly on a written take-home examination. Other forms of examination may be used in agreement with the students.

Subcourses that are part of this course can be found in an appendix at the end of this document.
