- make a scholarly assessment of their own knowledge and skills in relation to the research field.

Course content

The course is intended both for students specialising in Spanish for their degree in Education and for students with other specialisations. It provides students with specialised knowledge of Hispanophone literature through the study and processing of different types of text. Furthermore, students will become more familiar with the theories and methods of literary studies. Students are also to produce a degree project that is to be critically reviewed at a seminar. Throughout the course, students practise oral and written proficiency.

The elective courses are coordinated with the Master's programme in Literature, Culture and Media and are selected in consultation with the lecturer.

The course consists of the following modules:

1. Elective second cycle course I specialising in literature, 7.5 credits,
2. Elective second cycle course II specialising in literature, 7.5 credits,
3. Degree project, 15 credits.

Students are allowed to select one elective course of 15 credits rather than two of 7.5 credits.

Course design

The teaching consists of lectures, seminars and individual and group supervision. It is compulsory for students to defend their own degree project and critically review the degree project of a fellow student.

Assessment

Module 1. Elective course I is assessed in accordance with the relevant course syllabus,

Module 2: Elective course I is assessed in accordance with the relevant course syllabus,

Module 3: The degree project is assessed on the basis of the defence seminar including the critical review of a fellow student's degree project.

Passed degree projects at the Faculties of Humanities and Theology can be registered in the LUP Student Papers database if the student so wishes. The student is responsible for uploading the passed degree project as a PDF file in LUP student papers.

Subcourses that are part of this course can be found in an appendix at the end of this document.
