Kursens mål

A passing grade on the course will be awarded to students who:

Kunskap och förståelse
- Acquire a thorough understanding of a variety of theoretical approaches to change in organisations including knowledge of intervention techniques that facilitate participation and development.

Färdighet och förmåga
- Communicate in English on issues, debates and problems in the field both orally and in writing.

Värderingsförmåga och förhållningssätt
- Develop a thorough grounding in various tools of organisational diagnosis and intervention in order to select and evaluate different theories in relation to specific practical problems.
Kursens innehåll

The course is aimed at providing students with advanced theoretical and practical knowledge on understanding and explaining how and why organisations change. It deals in particular with techniques for intervention in organisations for managers and consultants alike. Practical knowledge is supplemented by reflections on development and change from various research perspectives.

In many ways most if not all contemporary organisations face the challenge of managing change. Yet managers wishing to pursue change strategies have a number of choices. Should change be rapid and transformational or more modest in scope and time-scale? Are change processes best planned from the top or is a more emergent and participative approach to be preferred? How should interventions be made by the change agent in a specific context? What is the role of learning and knowledge in change processes? How do we understand the politics of change in organisations?

The course will emphasise processual theories of organisations that are applicable in a wide variety of empirical settings as well as some of the various research methods that are specifically designed to support and evaluate such theories. Specific themes to be taken up will include theories of change, the role of dialogue in development processes as well as various intervention techniques.

The course will cover both descriptive approaches to understanding change and development as well as more normative methods for informing the change agent. A wide range of empirical investigations will be undertaken including cases from entrepreneurial firms, global business and public sector organisations such as hospitals.

Kursens genomförande

Instruction takes place primarily through lectures, seminars, workshops and case exercises in working teams.

Kursens examination

Grading takes place continually on the basis of case exercises, work assignments and seminar discussions. The literature is partly examined and graded collectively in seminars, where students report on their reading of the literature, and partly in a final test which is graded individually. Obligatory attendance and active participation are required on all parts of the course. After each examination there will be opportunities for students to take subsequent examination resits or undertake supplementary examination tasks as appropriate.
