- aided by grammars and monolingual dictionaries, read French texts in different genres and from different periods
- independently write well-structured texts in French with good lexical and grammatical control and without clear limitations of what can be expressed
- independently prepare and execute oral presentations and participate in debates and discussions in French
- in speech and writing and using the appropriate terminology, analyse and compare different texts in French and use secondary sources to place them in their context
- identify and use relevant and reliable sources of information for the study of the French language and literature
- aided by dictionaries and grammars, translate selected texts from French into Swedish
- apply French grammar in contrastive perspectives (of Swedish and French)
- apply some basic concepts in French linguistics to analyse a selection of French words, sentences and phrases in speech and writing
- execute and report in writing a minor assignment of an academic character on the area of specialisation within subject didactics
- under supervision, use some relevant sources to obtain information in the area of language didactics and language learning specialising in French

Judgement and approach

- take a position on the concept of "scholarly approach" within their area of specialisation
- take a critical position on source material and acquired knowledge
- understand and take a position on the ethics incorporated in a scholarly approach
- discuss and take a position on issues concerning gender, ethnicity, cultural encounters and cultural diversity, especially in the school environment, from different linguistic perspectives

Course content

The course places major emphasis on oral and written proficiency and on text study and text comprehension. It includes oral proficiency with training in debate techniques, grammar, phonetics and a specialised course in didactics. The course is more focused on knowledge of language, literature and language didactics than the preceding one and introduces research methods in language didactics. The specialised course in language didactics includes an introduction to French as a school subject and analysis of pupils' work that will be discussed using theories and methods in the research area of French language didactics and language learning.

The course consists of the following modules:

1. Oral Proficiency: Debate and Discussion, 5 credits
2. Written Proficiency: The French Language and Grammar, 6 credits
3. Literary Text and Literary Analysis: 7 credits
4. French Linguistics: 5 credits
5. Language Didactics and Language Acquisition Specialising in French: 7 credits

Course design

The teaching consists of lectures, group exercises and individual supervision of the minor paper included in the specialised course. The students on the course are also to attend the didactics seminar of the Romance languages, a forum in which active lecturers and researchers discuss their teaching and research in the Romance languages. Attendance amounting to at least 80% of the lectures and exercises, and the didactics seminar of Romance languages, is compulsory. Absence can be compensated for in accordance with the lecturer's instructions.

Assessment

Oral Proficiency: Debate and discussion are assessed through an oral test

Written Proficiency: French language and grammar are assessed through a written invigilated exam and 2-5 written assignments

Literary text and text analysis are assessed through a written invigilated exam and 2-5 written assignments

French linguistics is assessed through a written invigilated exam.

The specialised course in French language didactics is assessed through a paper.

The examiner, in consultation with Disability Support Services, may deviate from the regular form of examination in order to provide a permanently disabled student with a form of examination equivalent to that of a student without a disability.

Subcourses that are part of this course can be found in an appendix at the end of this document.

Grades

Marking scale: Fail, Pass, Pass with distinction.

For a grade of Pass on the whole course, the student must have been awarded this grade on all modules. For a grade Pass with Distinction on the whole course, the student must have been awarded this grade on at least 20 of the available 30 credits, 13 of which must be from modules 2 and 5.
