Course content

Module 1. Second Language Acquisition, 7.5 credits

The module provides students with knowledge of how a second language is acquired in general and Swedish as a second language in particular. Different theories for language learning are presented and discussed, with didactic perspectives as an important component. Both general patterns and individual differences are studied within the scope of development of a second language. The module includes specialised discussions of different linguistic, cultural, individual and social factors that influence the learning of a second language. Particular emphasis is placed on the role of the native language in second language acquisition and the development of multilingualism.

Module 2. Learning to Read and Write, 7.5 credits

The module addresses the development of literacy in a second language including reading and writing disorders as well as alphabetising. The principles of different writing systems are placed in relation to reading and writing in Swedish. The students will analyse different text genres and easy to read texts from a second language perspective. The students will discuss and practise different methods for teaching reading and writing.

Course design

The teaching consists of lectures, seminars, workshops and exercises, both individually and in groups.

Assessment

Assessment of Module 1 is based on a written invigilated exam and 1-2 written assignments.

Assessment of Module 2 is based on a written take-home exam, a written assignment, an oral group presentation and a workshop.

The examiner, in consultation with Disability Support Services, may deviate from the regular form of examination in order to provide a permanently disabled student with a form of examination equivalent to that of a student without a disability.

Subcourses that are part of this course can be found in an appendix at the end of this document.

Grades

Marking scale: Fail, Pass, Pass with distinction.

For the grade of Pass on the whole course, students must have been awarded at least this grade on both modules.
