The degree project is to be written in Spanish.

Main field of studies

Depth of study relative to the degree requirements

AXX, Second cycle, in-depth level of the course cannot be classified

Learning outcomes

On completion of the course, students shall be able to:

Knowledge and understanding

- account for relevant theoretical and methodological connections between research in the subject of Spanish and research in educational sciences and teaching practices,

Competence and skills

- apply established reference and citation techniques,
- use appropriate and correct Spanish in both speaking and writing,
- independently search for scientific sources within educational sciences of relevance to the teaching of the subject Spanish in order to carry out a theoretically grounded analysis,

- plan, design and implement an advanced research project that contributes to knowledge with relevance to educational sciences for Spanish teaching,

Judgement and approach

- relate to scientific, social and ethical aspects of their own and others' research project,
- identify their need of additional knowledge and continuing professional development in pedagogical work,
- critically review and evaluate different sources of information in an advanced research project,
- relate the results of an advanced research project to the surrounding society with a focus on the context of schools.

Course content

The course consists of an independent degree project (30 credits) that ties together research in the subject of Spanish and educational science research. The work is carried out with the support of a supervisor. In addition to the degree project, the course includes a defence of the independent work and critical review of another student's work.

Course design

In the course, the student writes an individual assignment supported by a supervisor. During the course, the independent project will gradually be discussed at supervision sessions individually and/or in groups, which can include peer review in speech and writing and/or supervision seminars. The independent project will be presented at a final public seminar. Students are expected to participate actively in all supervisory activities and seminars that are organised.

Assessment

The assessment is based on an independent project which is written and, at a public seminar, presented and defended by the student, and on the student's critical review of a fellow student's project. The independent project and the critical review will be assessed by a specially appointed examiner.

The examiner, in consultation with Disability Support Services, may deviate from the regular form of examination in order to provide a permanently disabled student with a form of examination equivalent to that of a student without a disability.

Subcourses that are part of this course can be found in an appendix at the end of this document.

Grades

Marking scale: Fail, Pass, Pass with distinction.

The grade on the independent project decides the grade on the whole course in accordance with the relevant grading criteria.

Entry requirements

For admission to the course, the student must have obtained at least 90 credits in the subject of Spanish on the subject teacher training programme or the equivalent, and completed core education subject course 8.

Further information

- The course is offered by the Centre for Languages and Literature, Lund University.
- The credits allocated for course content that in whole or in part is commensurate with another course can only be credited once for a degree.
