General Information

Subject: Classical Archaeology and Ancient History

The course is offered as a single course. It can normally be included as part of a general degree at the undergraduate or graduate levels. With the approval of the relevant authenticating body, it can also be included in certain professional degrees.

Language of instruction: Swedish

Main field of studies

Classical Archaeology and Ancient History

Depth of study relative to the degree requirements

G1N, First cycle, has only upper-secondary level entry requirements

Learning outcomes

On completion of the course the student shall

Knowledge and understanding

- be able to demonstrate basic knowledge and understanding of the Etruscan culture and its foundations
- be able to give an account of the basic characteristics of Etruscan written texts
- be able to give an account of the basic characteristics of Etruscan material culture.

Judgement and approach

- be able to relate historical ideas regarding the Etruscans to social circumstances and conditions.

Course content

The course examines general living conditions, production and consumption, internal and external contacts, mentalities etc. on the basis of archaeological material available and against a background of the natural environment of the time of the Etruscans. The course also provides the students with an introduction to Etruscan written texts which have been preserved mainly in the form of inscriptions. Existing research into the Etruscan civilisation is studied from an historical perspective (from the 18th century onwards) and current themes of research are introduced.

Course design

Teaching consists of lectures and teacher-led exercises. An excursion to museums in Copenhagen is included on the course.

Assessment

Examinations take the form of written or oral examinations.

Subcourses that are part of this course can be found in an appendix at the end of this document.

Grades

Marking scale: Fail, Pass, Pass with distinction.

Entry requirements
