Course content

The Master's thesis is the culmination of the student's work during the programme and should address social, cultural, political and/or economic issues in contemporary Asia. The work consists mainly of the student completing a study and collecting material, possibly in the region, and writing an independent thesis of 30 högskolepoäng. The length of the thesis should be approximately 15,000 words and have to be defended at a seminar.

Course design

Teaching consists of supervision and seminars. Supervision is normally limited to the semester in which the student was first registered for the course. However, exceptions can be made if there are special reasons.

Assessment

The course is examined through the student's defence at a seminar of his or her thesis. The defense of one's own thesis and the student's critical review of another thesis is mandatory.

Written instructions for opponents and respondents are given well in advance of the seminar.

An additional seminar is offered the following semester.

Passed degree projects at the Joint Faculties of Humanities and Theology can be registered in the LUP Student Papers database if the student so wishes.

The examiner, in consultation with Disability Support Services, may deviate from the regular form of examination in order to provide a permanently disabled student with a form of examination equivalent to that of a student without a disability.

Grades

Grading scale includes the grades: U=Fail, E=Sufficient, D=Satisfactory, C=Good, B=Very Good, A=Excellent

The grades awarded are A, B, C, D, E or Fail. The highest grade is A and the lowest passing grade is E. The grade for a non-passing result is Fail.

At the start of the course students are informed about the learning outcomes stated in the syllabus and about the grading scale and how it is applied in the course.

Entry requirements

Knowledge corresponding to 75 credits of coursework within the Master of Science Programme in Asian Studies, including the course COSM21 Methodology in theory (7,5 credits), and proficiency in English equivalent to English 6/B from Swedish upper secondary school.
