Course content

The course is included in the first semester of the BA programme.

The aim is to provide students with knowledge and skills to independently, individually or in groups, develop and conduct a project specialising in a specific subject within digital cultures of value to the stakeholders of the project. Major emphasis is placed on the development of ideas and presentation as well as on the description of the chosen issue and the argumentation for it.

Course design

The teaching consists of seminars, group exercises and scheduled supervision.

Assessment

The assessment is based on ongoing assignments and a project presentation.

Three opportunities for examination are offered in conjunction with the course: a first examination, a re-sit close to the first examination and a second re-sit in the same year. At least two further re-examinations on the same course content are offered within a year of the end of the course. After this, further re-examination opportunities are offered only if re-taking the course, and then in accordance with the then current course syllabus.

If it is not possible to use the same form of assessment at the re-sit, the examiner may deviate from it, as long as it is commensurate with the learning outcomes.

The examiner, in consultation with Disability Support Services, may deviate from the regular form of examination in order to provide a permanently disabled student with a form of examination equivalent to that of a student without a disability.
