G2F, First cycle, has at least 60 credits in first-cycle course/s as entry requirements

Learning outcomes

On completion of the course, the students shall be able to

Knowledge and understanding

- provide a specialised account of an elective field within English language or literature

Competence and skills

- discuss relevant course material in speech and in writing in correct and idiomatic academic English

Course content

Students are able to specialise in a chosen area of English language or literature. At the beginning of the semester, a number of elective courses (normally 4-6) are presented in both speech and writing. The students on the course and on other courses with equivalent elective components choose from these courses as well as ranking them. Students are then allocated to the elective courses based on the students' choices and rankings. When necessary, for example if one of the elective courses is overly popular, the students' academic qualifications in English (the number of credits and the number points from grades of Pass with Credit) will determine which students are awarded their first choice. In exceptional cases, one of the offered elective courses may be cancelled, for example, if the applicants per place is too low.

Course design

Teaching consists of seminars.

Assessment

Depending on the nature of the relevant course, different forms of assessment may be applied, such as a written exam, written assignments in the form of a take-home exam, an essay, response papers or a learning journal, oral presentations and compulsory assessed seminars. The assessment can also be based on the performance of a play.

The examiner, in consultation with Disability Support Services, may deviate from the regular form of examination in order to provide a permanently disabled student with a form of examination equivalent to that of a student without a disability.

Subcourses that are part of this course can be found in an appendix at the end of this document.

Grades

Marking scale: Fail, Pass, Pass with distinction.

Entry requirements
