Course content

Through continued study of English grammar, the students practise their ability to analyse grammar and their ability to understand and correctly use English in speech and writing. In a literary survey course the students study a selection of English texts from the earliest times to the late 20th century with an emphasis on the most famous authors. These are studied in the context of cultural history. The learning of new vocabulary is seen as an ongoing process, carried out, primarily, as self-study. Students are also to pursue practising their ability to plan and keep up with predetermined timeframes.

The course consists of the following modules:

1. English Grammar, 7.5 credits
2. English Literary History, 7.5 credits

Course design

The teaching consists of group exercises, lectures and seminars.

Assessment

The assessment of module 1, English Grammar, is based on a written invigilated exam.

The assessment of module 2, English Literary History, is based on a written invigilated exam.

The examiner, in consultation with Disability Support Services, may deviate from the regular form of examination in order to provide a permanently disabled student with a form of examination equivalent to that of a student without a disability.

Subcourses that are part of this course can be found in an appendix at the end of this document.

Grades

Marking scale: Fail, Pass, Pass with distinction.

For a grade Pass on the whole course, the student must have been awarded at least this grade for both modules. For a grade of Pass with Distinction on the whole course, the student must have been awarded this grade for both modules.

Entry requirements

To be admitted to the course, the student must have completed ENGA04 (English: Level 1) or the equivalent.
