Course content

The course "Introduction to Swedish Law" is divided into three main areas of activity: ordinary lectures, group work and individual assignments. The lectures cover most areas of the Swedish legal system, such as constitutional law, private law, administrative law, criminal law and procedural law. The students are divided into groups dealing with specific items of Swedish law.

The main object is to present the special features of Swedish law, such as the protection of civil rights and some of the fundamental freedoms, such as the freedom of the press and the right to access public documents.

Course design

Knowledge, comprehension and competences are attained by

- attendance at course lectures
- self-studies (course literature)
- group work on a project
- oral training in seminars
- independent work on an essay

Teaching is provided in the form of lectures, seminars and individual tuition.

Assessment

Assessment of the students will be based on the following components of the course:

- participation in a group project
- essay
- an oral examination

The grade for the whole course will be awarded on the basis of the sum of points accumulated from the different components.

The examiner, in consultation with Disability Support Services, may deviate from the regular form of examination in order to provide a permanently disabled student with a form of examination equivalent to that of a student without a disability.
