Course content

The first module of the course provides an advanced insight into the basic theoretical and methodological problems of literary studies using application exercises on literary texts. Then the student choses one of two elective specialisations, one focussed on children’s and youth literature, both of which focuses on the thematic study of material from the perspective of literary studies. The theme of the specialisations is established before the start of the course and could, for example, be authorship-oriented or relate to problems of a literary-sociological or genre nature. The students complete the course by executing an independent degree project with a scholarly orientation. The degree project is normally composed individually, but if the students wish, it can also be composed in pairs, with the supervisor's approval.

The course consists of the following modules:

1. Application of Literary Theories and Methods, 7.5 credits

2. Elective Thematic Specialisation, 7.5 credits,
3. Degree Project, 15 credits.

Course design

The teaching consists of lectures, teaching sessions, exercises, discussion seminars and supervision. Supervision is normally limited to the semester when the student was first registered for the course. Exceptions can be made if there are special grounds.

During Module 2, participation in at least 75% of the teaching components (approximately 10–12) is compulsory.

If, due to circumstances beyond their control, such as accidents, sudden illness or similar, students are unable to carry out a compulsory component, the University is responsible for ensuring that an equivalent alternative or another time for the component is offered. This also applies to students participating in activities in an elected position as a student representative.

Assessment

Module 1 is assessed on the basis of an academic paper and two seminars that require both preparation and active participation in accordance with the teacher's instructions.

Module 2 is assessed on the basis of written work and oral presentation.

Module 3 is assessed on the basis of a degree project. The degree project is defended orally at a seminar. The assessment is also based on the student's critical review of a fellow student's degree project.

Degree projects awarded a grade of Pass at the Faculties of Humanities and Theology can be registered in the LUP Student Papers database if the student so wishes. The student is responsible for ensuring that the version of the degree project that has been assessed and approved is the one uploaded to LUP Student Papers (in PDF format).

The examiner, in consultation with Disability Support Services, may deviate from the regular form of examination in order to provide a permanently disabled student with a form of examination equivalent to that of a student without a disability.

For the grade of Pass on the whole course, the student must have been awarded this grade for all modules. For the grade of Pass with Distinction on the whole course, the student must, in addition, have been awarded this grade on the degree project.
