Learning outcomes

On completion of the course, the students shall be able to

Knowledge and understanding

- read, analyse and interpret a relevant selection of Russian fiction, especially taking into account the semantic and stylistic register of the Russian language
- relate the studied texts to the development of Russian literary history with regard to, for example, periods, genres and general cultural contexts

Competence and skills

- execute a text analysis highlighting both stylistic and semantic aspects
- interpret literary texts as generated in specific cultural contexts
- conduct a scholarly dialogue regarding their own and others' interpretations
- identify important aspects of Russian literary history
- analyse and interpret Russian film and/or literature from 1920 onwards, with regard to, for example, periods, genres and general cultural contexts

Judgement and approach

- review Russian literature based on scientific, societal and ethical aspects

Course content

The course provides specialised study of five periods of Russian literary history: the golden age of Russian poetry (1800?1830); Russian realist prose (1830?1890); Russian Modernism (1890?1917); literature and its position during Soviet rule (1917?1991); and Russian literature after the dissolution of the Soviet Union, 1991. To a certain extent, the student may choose to replace Russian literature from 1920 onwards with Soviet and post-Soviet film.

Course design

The teaching consists of individual supervision and seminars.

Assessment

The assessment is based on 2?3 written assignments and 2?3 oral and/or written exams.

The examiner, in consultation with Disability Support Services, may deviate from the regular form of examination in order to provide a permanently disabled student with a form of examination equivalent to that of a student without a disability.?
