Depth of study relative to the degree requirements

G1F, First cycle, has less than 60 credits in first-cycle course/s as entry requirements

Learning outcomes

On completion of the course, the students shall be able to

Knowledge and understanding

- provide a specialised account of the practical and theoretical aspects of technology and content of the process of music production
- account for the conditions and functions of both technology and music theory within music production

Competence and skills

- work with and create music productions
- analyse, describe and interpret different types of music and music productions, e.g. popular music, world music and art music
- describe in speech and writing different aspects of the processes of music production, e.g. recording, mixing and editing

Judgement and approach

- take a critical and scholarly position on issues of musicology
- relate their knowledge of musicology and music production to different social and cultural contexts

Course content

The course includes theoretical and practical exercises within key elements of music production, such as recording and editing. Furthermore, the formal, temporal, sounding and auditory aspects of music are studied. These factors add precision, accuracy and flexibility to music creation. Moreover, students analyse both work processes and artistic development in order to understand how theory and practice interact in music production.

The course consists of the following modules:

1. Methods and Theories of Music Production II, 6 credits,
2. Music Production Analysis, 4 credits,
3. Encountering Different Genres, 5 credits,
4. Music Production in Practice II, 15 credits.

Course design

The teaching consists of lectures, practical exercises, group assignments, seminars and independent study. The course includes just over 15 practical exercises. All teaching requires compulsory attendance amounting to at least 80%.

Assessment

Module 1: written exam and approximately five written assignments.

Module 2: take-home exam

Module 3: written exam

Module 4: written exam and a little more than 15 continuous written and practical assignments throughout the course

The examiner may deviate from the regular form of examination if the student has been granted an alternative form of examination by the Disability Support Services, and if it complies with the learning outcomes of the course.

The examiner may deviate from the regular form of examination if it cannot be implemented during a re-examination, and if it complies with the learning outcomes of the course.
