Learning outcomes

This course gives the student an introductory knowledge about fundamental issues and vital challenges within Public Management and related theories, focusing on both public and non-profit organizations.

A passing grade on the course will be awarded to students who:

Knowledge and understanding

- Demonstrate knowledge and understanding of fundamental theories and models within Public Management
- Demonstrate knowledge and understanding of the background of different theoretical perspectives and central concepts, models, and tools for analyzing and understanding management in public and non-profit organizations.

Competence and skills

- Are able to apply theoretical perspectives in public management to analyse challenges in public and non-profit organizations and finding alternative to these.
- Are able to present and discuss theoretically based analysis and conclusions.

Judgement and approach

- Demonstrate an ability to identify and integrate relevant theories from the course to present precise conclusions.
- Demonstrate the ability to present nuanced conclusions and recommendations for improvements concerning management and leadership in public and non-profit organisations.

Course content

The aim of the course is to introduce and provide a basic understanding of governance and management in public / non-profit organizations and how this can be applied in different situations.

The course begins with an overview of the historical development in governance and management of public / non-profit organizations. Furthermore, the characteristics and functioning of public / non-profit organizations are discussed and analyzed on the basis of their respective assignments. The focus of the course is the development and application of organizational forms and control processes and the possibilities of applying knowledge about this in practical situations.

Course design

The course consists of lectures, workshops and student presentations. The approach on the course is based on a so-called "flipped classroom" where students work outside the school to prepare classroom exercises (independent as well as teacher-led) and activities led by the teacher. The course structure is further described in course instructions (distributed separately).

Assessment

Assessment and grading are based on two parts:

- One or more individual written paper that focuses on the student's understanding of and ability to reflect on core concepts and models of the course.
- One or more group assignment presented and discussed in class. The focus is on the ability to apply and discuss the content of the course.

The examiner, in consultation with Disability Support Services, may deviate from the regular form of examination in order to provide a permanently disabled student with a form of examination equivalent to that of a student without a disability.

Subcourses that are part of this course can be found in an appendix at the end of this document.
