Details of approval

The syllabus is an old version, approved by the pro-dean for first-cycle studies at the Faculties of Humanities and Theology on 2016-09-28 and was valid from 2016-09-28, spring semester 2017.

General Information

The course is included in the Master's (120 credits) programme in Language and Linguistics (HASPV). It is also offered as a freestanding course and can be included in a first or second cycle degree.

Main field of studies

Language and Linguistics - specialization in Swedish/Scandinavian Languages

Depth of study relative to the degree requirements

A1N, Second cycle, has only first-cycle course/s as entry requirements

Learning outcomes

On completion of the course, the students shall be able to

Knowledge and understanding

- account for the key structural and socio-linguistic similarities and differences of the Nordic languages, and for some present-day development tendencies

Competence and skills

- use theoretical models to solve different problems associated with the structure or socio-linguistic situation of the Nordic languages
- independently identify and formulate issues concerning Nordic language variation, investigate them and propose a solution
- present in writing problems, issues, methods and results of a study addressing a language phenomenon covered by the course

Judgement and approach

- demonstrate a sound ability to assess and discuss scholarly texts dealing with the Nordic languages and their similarities and differences

Course content

The course is based on traditional theories of language change and the family relationships of the Nordic languages, but also introduces more recent theories of language variation and language change. One component is devoted to discussion and analysis of problematic cases. The course participants execute a minor research study.

Course design

The teaching consists of lectures and 3-4 compulsory seminars.

Assessment

The assessment is based partly on active participation in the compulsory seminars and partly on a written assignment on Nordic language variation.

Subcourses that are part of this course can be found in an appendix at the end of this document.

Grades

Marking scale: Fail, Pass, Pass with distinction.

Entry requirements

To be admitted to the course, students must have 90 credits, including at least 60 credits in Swedish or Nordic Languages, or another language or linguistics. Furthermore, proficiency in Swedish and English corresponding to TISUS/Swedish 3 and English 6/English B is required.

Further information
