- be able to identify the feasibility of concord and cooperation between the Jewish, Muslim and Christian religions.

Course content

The course deals with the three so-called Abrahamic religions, Judaism, Christianity and Islam. The relationships between them are discussed from historical and present-day perspectives. Current relationships are analysed with particular attention being paid to Abrahamic ecumenism and its contribution to the resolution of conflicts. Various positions of the theology of religion are introduced as are theological perspectives on the present-day Israeli-Palestinian conflict. An emphasis is placed on Jerusalem as a holy city for all three religions.

Course design

Teaching consists of lectures and seminars. Students are expected to complete independent written and/or oral assignments in connection with the seminars. Compulsory seminars may be scheduled. Absences are compensated for according to instructions given by the lecturer. The course includes a study visit to the Middle East or alternatively a case study conducted in Sweden.

Assessment

Assessment is based on orally defended written assignments.

Subcourses that are part of this course can be found in an appendix at the end of this document.

Grades

Marking scale: Fail, Pass, Pass with distinction.
