Course content

The course deals with the historical and theoretical foundations of the current work of evaluation and development of education in schools. The aim of the course is to provide students with knowledge and skills in the area of evaluation and development of education aiming to improve teaching. Different models of evaluation and governance are reviewed and queried.

The course consists of two components:

Component 1 Quality Assurance and Evaluation deals with evaluation and development work and the historical and theoretical description and definition of quality in schools and education. This component addresses the concept of educational evaluation, how educational evaluation has been developed over time, and how development is organised and evaluated locally.

Component 2 Development Work deals with theoretically based planning of development work including evaluation. Students are to design and judge a project with regard to its relevance for the development of schools, the work of teachers and the learning of adolescents/adults.

The students practise literature searches, literature reviews, writing, reviewing and providing relevant feedback on evaluation and development plans from the perspective of research methodology.

Course design

The teaching includes lectures, seminars and exercises.
