Kursens innehåll

This course examines the complex relationship between business and society, with a special focus on the social responsibilities of corporations and the strategies they use in managing their relationships. Students will work with a variety of theoretical perspectives (e.g. ethical theories, CSR theories) and real-life case studies.

The course addresses questions such as 'What is the purpose of business?', 'Is it possible to distinguish real CSR from CSR as mere image-building?', 'Is CSR good for business?', 'How can CSR be managed in practice?', and 'What is the responsibility of the consumer?'.

The class will consist of lectures and seminars. Students are expected to come fully prepared with readings and to participate actively in class discussions.

Kursens genomförande

Instruction will take place through lectures, case analyses, and group discussions. Students are expected to read assigned materials prior to class and to participate vigorously in class discussions.

Kursens examination

Grading will take place through examinations, student reports, group assignments and presentations. Class attendance is mandatory. Opportunities will be made available for re-examination as well.
